

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

This is a perfect example of why I opposed relaxing FCC ownership rules earlier this year.

People can disagree but Sinclair requiring its stations to air "Stolen Honor" is a violation of the public trust and the requirements of balanced journalism.

If the FCC can level a fine for Janet Jackson's wardrobe "malfunction" they sure need to do something about this. It's infinitely worse.
